

Online access to CCLM

For this purpose a forum was created. It can be reached via the menu of our site or via <http://www.bvkc.be/smf/>.

Registration

- Go to the forum (<http://www.bvkc.be/smf/>).
- Choose "register an account".
- Choose a username.
- Key in a valid emailaddress.
- Choose a password and enter it a second time for confirmation.
- Key in the text that appears as coloured text in the square.
- Click on "register".
- Further actions are not yet possible!

You will receive a mail confirming your registration. Access will be granted after it was confirmed that you are indeed a member of our society.

Access after approval of your registration

- Once you received a mail approving your registration, you will be able to login with your chosen username-password combination.
- After opening the first topic of the list of discussion-topics, a link to CCLM is presented.

It is important that you click on it to proceed to CCLM (do not copy the link; that will not work).

Some remarks

- ATTENTION: mails generated from this forum (by the moderator) are often regarded as spam and end up in the spam folder.
The mail confirming your registration is sent immediately but the one concerning acceptance of your membership will be sent later, within 3 days. You are invited to check your mail and add the address to the list of safe addresses.
- Saving the link in your favorites or copying it to your browser will not work. For accessing the full text and PDFs of all CCLM articles, you must have gained access to CCLM via our site/forum. Otherwise, if you go to the CCLM-site directly, you will only be able to see abstracts and tables of content just like any other visitor.
- We are obligated to work with a controlled access in 2 steps since we have to prove the CCLM editor that only regular members can access their articles. Hence the somewhat cumbersome procedure.
- Initially it is not our intention to actively promote discussion in this forum but this possibility is not blocked so people who feel called will be able to use this.
- In case of any problems or questions, do not hesitate to contact us.